ACTRESS ATTACKERS WAIT EXTRADITION

Montreal, July 30 (I.N.S.)—Pending extradition proceedings, commenced today, Philip C. Elliott and Richard Thorne, accused of assaulting Violet Anderson, New York actress, were remanded for another eight days to Bordeaux jail by Judge Choquet. Application by Elliott and Thorne for bail or parole was refused.

200 ARRESTS LOOM IN MELLET MURDER PROBE

Canton, O., July 30 (I.N.S.)—When the final connecting link in the solution of the Den R. Mellett murder is completed as many as 200 arrests may be made. Agents of the Burns detective agency declared an organized group of underworld habitués contributed $2,700 to a "Mellett murder fund."

MAINE YOUTH, HIT BY LIVE WIRE, BREAKS NECK

Caribou, Me., July 30 (A.P.)—Olin Richardson, 22, a motor company employe, while placing a Caribou fair banner across Sweden street today, was shocked by a 500-volt wire and fell 25 feet from a light pole, breaking his neck. He was the son of T. P. Richardson, Canadian Pacific Railway agent.

STEEL AND GENERAL MOTORS AGAIN UP

General Motors and U. S. Steel again registered froth tops in New York Stock Exchange trading today. The closing was generally above the day's lows. A big volume of profit-taking was well absorbed. Wild fluctuations occurred. Rails were taken up for a time. Most notable gains were made by reliable dividend payers, including New York Central, Southern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Railway, Atlantic Coast Line, Atchafalaya and Northern Pacific.

NEW HIGH PRICES for Steel, another new and higher price for General Motors yesterday; $22,000 shares of Steel sold for the price to $146; $32,000 shares of General Motors sold in a day forced the price to $193. A while since it was $113. Buyers must feel like men that walk on from beams at the top of skyscrapers, a long distance to drop if you do drop. $50,000 RECEIPT WRITTEN BY OTHER HAND SAYS HAMILTON

A second handwriting expert, echoing the testimony of a previous witness at the trial of Mrs. Oda Pappathanos' $500,000 suit against Daniel H. Coakley in Superior Court, declared today that Coakley did not sign the receipt for $150,000 on which the suit is largely based.

Albert H. Hamilton of Auburn, N. Y., who qualified as a defense witness, said he had compared the signature with 75 checks that Coakley had signed, and found that the signature on the receipt was not the same as the others.

Hamilton testified that the $150,000 receipt was made on the same typewriter as the other three exhibits in the trial, but typed by a different person, and with a different typewriting machine. He said that the receipt was not the same as the others, and that the typewriter which had made it was not the same as the others.

He concluded that the handwriting on the receipt was not the same as the others, and that the typewriter which had made it was not the same as the others.

Mexico City, July 30 (A.P.)—Special dispatches from Puebla say that Garcia Faria, the aged grocery man who on Wednesday attempted to shoot General Amaya, the military commander, but instead wounded General Sanchez in the hand, was shot and killed by unknown persons while being transferred to the military prison.

GEORGE H. JOHNSON MADE CITY COLLECTOR

Mayor Nichols today appointed George H. Johnson, director of the Commercial, Industrial and Publicity Bureau and Public Celebrations, to the office of city collector, succeeding William M. McMorrow.

Mr. Johnson, whose resignation had been in the hands of the Mayor since January, created a sensation when he announced his resignation after the Mayor's act, that he would be a member of the Legislature from Ward 13, Mayor "Will" McMorrow, the practice of taxation law.

He served in the Legislature from 1911-1913-1914.

As city collector, Director Johnson, if approved by the City Council, will succeed William M. McMorrow.

GIRL SEES MAIL THEFT SUSPECT IN PEABODY; HUNT ON FOR HUB TRIO

The hunt for the daring mail train robbers who got $65,000 from a Boston & Maine train at Salisbury was waged suddenly today to Peabody where a man was in flight with his plane and money.

Answering the description of one bold robber, the stranger entered a Peabody lawyer's office and inquired for the attorney. Told he was out, the man turned, stumbled, broke and ran from the office.

Wondering about the bills she had seen sticking from his pocket, the girl told of the incident to Judge Fay, who has a nearby office. He informed the Peabody police and then the State police were called.

Confronted with descriptions of the two robbers on the train, the girl declared that of the older man, believed to be a Peabody lawyer, she saw the description of the nervous visitor.

CHARGE MURDER TO 3.
Another new angle in the holdup case came today when District Attorney Arthur K. Reading of Middlesex County declared the bell-ringer of the Salisbury train robbery was a Peabody lawyer.

This statement was made by Reading in broadcasting a request in all news that the three men be arrested at night for the murder of Edward J. Ross, in the Ward

J., July 30 (A.P.)—As the State marshalled its forces in the effort to send her to the electric chair for the murder of her average husband and his sweetheart, Mrs. Eleanor Mills (Hall) made her first move to fight back today. She announced appointment of Senator Simpson as special prosecutor in the case against Mrs. Hall, defense attorneys made a move for her release.

The application for release shifted the case of greatest interest temporarily from the Somerset County jail of the Peabody Prisoner, 30 miles away, where the application was made.

SAVES PAYROLL THUG SNATCHED FROM GIRL

Payroll thugs in the South End were charged of 14th worth of loot today by the bravery of Miss Cynthia Wadman, employe of the Kennedy Film Company, and the quick action of James Kinella, insurance broker of the John Hancock Company.

Wadman was carrying the payroll in a large envelope from the bank and had all but reached the door of the film company's quarters on Piedmont street.

A black coach in which three men were riding, drew up beside her. One thug leaped out and began wrestling with the girl, trying to snatch the envelope from her hand. She resisted him and began to scream.

As Kinella appeared the thug wrestled the envelope away from the girl. Kinella pursued him, but he had a short struggle with the envelope, but the man had a short struggle with the envelope and sped away.

He is described as a 35-year-old, dressed in dark clothing, and wearing a light cap. Only vague descriptions of the men, the car and the girl were given the police. Special Officer Muller of the LaGrange street division and Sheriff McDermott of the Peabody Police station are in pursuit of the trio.

where the picture resembled one of a train robber. But a third development today was the quizzing of James (Guy) alias James Pennington of Lawrence, Mass., arrested and fined $100 on a rum charge in Newburyport, then taken to Amesbury for questioning as a suspicious person. Guy was arrested last Saturday, while alleged to be running liquor.

MYSTERY MAN IN CAR.
Chester Price, railway mail clerk on the Portland train that carried the money from Boston to Newburyport, told Chief Postal Inspector Colvin today that a foreign-looking man climbed into the mail car at the North Station just before the train pulled out.

The clerk said the man must have stepped into the car from a baggage truck on the platform. When Price saw him, the stranger was looking toward the car.

Price approached and the man fumbled in his pocket, drew out a letter and asked if he could mail it on the train. Told he could, he left the letter, which bore a Sanford, Mass., address.

"Dinner developments here the finding of a new jack-knife on the B. & M. rounded at the point where the robbers leaped from the train and a story of three nocturnal thugs who attempted to rob a Boston man near Newburyport.

The jack-knife, according to postal inspectors, had not lain on the road long. It was picked up carefully and an attempt will be made to obtain finger prints from it.

Chief Postal Inspector Park, Jr., Colvin received a telephone call from George Miller of No. 28 Tremont street, telling of the attempted robbery on the Newburyport Turnpike by three men, one of whom answered the description of one train robber.

Miller said he was returning to Boston from New Hampshire and because he felt drowsy and feared he would fall asleep, he pulled up at the side of the road for a nap.

THIRTY SLEUTHS IN HUNT.
Some time later he awoke with a start to find three men beside the car, just starting to go through his pockets. When he awoke, they fled. Miller thought the information was of some value, he said.

Thirty Pinkerton detectives and other inspectors of some value, he said, were sent to New Hampshire and the scene of the daring train robbery. The masked detectives and inspectors re-created the holdup, as State detectives began a checkup of discharged employees of Amesbury factories. This was on the "inside job" theory.

SUSPECT KNOWN CROOK.
At the same time, State and local police were beating the two-mile strip of woods stretching from the Boston & Maine tracks at the hold-up point to the New Hampshire State line, in the hope some clue might be forthcoming.

Motorcycle officers of the State patrol were keeping a watchful eye for suspicious persons as they rolled through the rain over the roads and a watch was kept for a man well-known in the underworld. He is suspected of having some knowledge of the Western-style "air-raid."

State Detective Michael Fleming and Joseph Ferreira were assigned to check up discharged employees of Amesbury manufacturing plants with special reference to a man with a possible resemblance to the leader of the two train robbers.

On automobiles issued by the postal authorities, the entire crew of the robbers train reported at Amesbury. Town Hall in another part of the investigation. They were questioned about the robbery. It is hoped identification might come in this way.

As the searchers carried on the attempt to hunt down the daring thugs, Chief Postal Inspector Park, Jr., Colvin declared that the Federal government will never let up on pursuit of the robbers.

WELL REHEARSED.
That the robbery was rehearsed for at least a week in advance is indicated by the stories of two new witnesses, located by the Boston Evening American.

Thomas Merrill, of No. 43 Merrill street, Newburyport, who has been at work in a bayfield in the vicinity of where the robbers leaped from the train, said that for the past week at about seven every morning two expensive machines of the type usually have driven up to the vicinity and have been connected in the shrubbery while four men who carried in them spread out along the road, apparently taking a survey of the route with a view toward perfecting their escape plan after a coup.

Mr. Merrill said that two of the men answered the descriptions given of the two robbers on the train. On Wednesday morning, he said, he drove past one of the men who was walking along Hallow Road and offered him a lift. His offer was refused, he said.

Pete Cronin, whose farm is within 100 feet of the scene and whose wife saw three men running toward the concealed machine carrying the mail sack, remembered seeing four men in a machine drive past his farm on Sunday. They stopped a little distance away and when they saw him and other members of the family observing them, they took to the woods.

One of the men who were seen on a two-wheeled machine was a man who looked like a man who was looking for accommodations. They asked him if he could furnish them. Cronin replied that he was unable to do so. Then they drove away. Cronin said two of them would answer the description given of the train robbers.

GREATEST MAN HUNT.
Newburyport police picked up two pairs of suspects who answer to the description of the robbers. But all four were released later. The first pair were able to offer a satisfactory explanation. The second pair, carrying packages, were stopped by Motorcycle Officer Page as they were walking down a narrow stretch of woods near the Newburyport Amesbury line.

Railroad detectives and police took two men into custody at Salisbury. They are said to be giving information that may lead to the early arrest of the robbers. The first man arrested was released, but the second was detained in jail. He is an ex-convict and while police are convinced he is in no way connected with the train robbery, he is a leader of a gang which operates between Newburyport and Lawrence.

Post office inspectors, State police, police of surrounding towns and of Boston are combining in one of the most intensive searches known here to find the robbers. The entire territory is being combed. Police call it the best planned crime of two decades.

What the B. & M. Holdup Men Looked Like

Here is the description of the men sought in connection with the Boston & Maine train robbery:

Man, 35, five feet six inches tall, light complexion, a scar near the left eye, wearing a blue suit with a fine pencil stripe, and, from appearance, a foreigner.

Man, 35, five feet five inches tall, weighing about 125 pounds, wearing a gray cap and khaki trousers.

The United States Government will pay a reward of $2,000 for the arrest and conviction of each man.

'PASS BUCK' ON HOLDUP BLAME

No one was responsible for the failure to place a guard over the mail pouches containing $45,000, stolen by armed thugs from the baggage car of a Boston & Maine train at Salisbury.

At least disclaimers by the Federal Reserve Bank, the Post Office department, and Boston & Maine officials would lead to such a supposition.

The Reserve Bank sent the money to the Post Office department, protected by a blanket insurance policy. There the bank's responsibility ended, it is contended.

The $45,000 was sent through Superintendent John Pease of the registry division of the Boston Post Office. He said postal authorities do not insure registered mail packages for more than $100. Two pouches are believed to have been stolen; therefore, all the Government is liable to the bank for is $200.

W. S. Yarrington, superintendent of the railway mail in New England, blames the Boston & Maine "false economy" program because it has so changed its schedule that it offers no service to mail at some hours when vacationers and tourists are making their way to the resorts.

On the basis of the "false economy" program, the "armed guard" for the pouches and no mail car available, only a baggage car.

Boston & Maine officials disclaim responsibility, saying they crash the railway mail authorities with whatever type of service desired and in this case only a baggage car was authorized.

CLAMP LID ON SHIP DRINKING
Washington, July 29 (A.P.)—Disclosures in the investigation that passengers carried liquor aboard ship, and that the Government is tightening restrictions on all ships flying the American flag, it was learned today.

Courts have held the dry law applies to American ships wherever, and it was pointed out that the Government is now holding its hand in the Levantine and in the Mediterranean, where it is illegal as drinking in a cabaret, or any public place.

The Levantine inquiry was ended after charges were made that Americans sold liquor. Inspectors found no support for such charges, says. All were captured.

REWISE DAWES N. Y. TAKES LEAD FROM TEXAS IN EXPORTS

Williamstown, July 29 (A.P.)—Revision and extension of the Dawes Plan on a more practical basis of reparations payments in "gold" goods, rather than in "convertible" goods, was suggested by Paul Harvey, formerly editor of the International Interpreter, author and lecturer on international relations, before the opening session of the Institute of Politics yesterday.

The International Chamber of Commerce, including in its personnel many of the experts instrumental in drawing up the Dawes Plan, stands sponsor for the new plan, and will soon ask for the formation of a new world secretariat of experts who will study the possibilities of development of backward areas, as part of the scheme.

If reparations are made by a transfer of goods, Harvey said, there is grave danger that the recipient country will suffer more than the giving country, whose economic status will be improved by the extra stimulus necessary, while the receiving country will suffer from over supply and unemployment conditions.

SOVIETS PICK NEW HEAD OF ECONOMIC COUNCIL
Moscow, July 29 (A.P.)—It is understood Vladimir Kuybyshev, now chief of the workers and peasants' inspection and president of the Central Control Commission of the Communist party, will be made head of the Supreme Economic Council to succeed the late M. Dzerzhinsky.

It is said S. G. Ordzhonikidze of Tiflis, a highly influential Georgian and a supporter of M. Stalin of the executive committee of the Communist party, will take M. Dzerzhinsky's place as head of the State political police, formerly known as the OGPU.

CASH PAYMENTS ON U. S. SHIPS DUE TO F. C.
Washington, July 29 (A.P.)—In a further effort to expedite sale of the government-owned fleet to private interests, the Shipping Board today announced that it will require payment of $10 per cent of the purchase price of any of the 22 ships set up, a minimum of 10 per cent will be required with signing of the contract and a balance of 10 per cent cash payment. The balance will be distributed over a period of ten years.

150 LOSE LIVES IN BAHAMAS

Miami, Fla., July 29 (U.S.A.)—One hundred and fifty fishermen are reported lost as a result of the terrible hurricane which swept in from the Bahamas Islands, this week, according to word reaching here today.

The weather forecast which was issued Friday in 75 small boats for a six week cruise among the islands bordering Great Andria Island, have not been heard from.

The gas, recorded as attacking a boat 25 miles off shore, finally smashed its way through Nassau, demolishing buildings, tearing up streets with broken glass and debris, and making many small craft, the sailors here stated today.

With only moderate winds and scattered rains in the north forecast until tonight, all the remainder of the tropical hurricane in Florida today was the debris-strewn leashes of coastwise cities.

Total life toll in this State was only five deaths.

A total State property loss of $1,000,000 is doubtful. Florida coast shipping has entirely recovered.

Paralyzed by Dive in Pool
Lawton, Me., July 29—Paralyzed on one side of his body, Raymond Briggs of Maine street, Lawton, is in the Central Maine General Hospital here after being rescued from Bear Pond Park at North Turner, shape to his yard.

FRANCE 'KIND' TO MELLON

Tours, France, July 29 (A.P.)—Andrew W. Mellon, American Secretary of the Treasury, left Tours today after spending two days in the Chateau country. It was his first visit here since 1914.

"I have enjoyed the trip very much," Mr. Mellon said, "and feel my vacation is benefiting me greatly. I have met with unfailing friendliness and courtesy."

The Secretary has seen no one officially and has no formal engagements. He and his party will proceed to Rome and then to Switzerland, where he is accompanied by his son, Paul, Treasurer of the Treasury and James McKay of Pittsburgh.

Paris, July 29 (A.P.)—Deputy De Chappedelin, who drafted the Chamber Finance Committee's report on the government's financial bill, estimates that the yield of the proposed taxes will be 2,450,000,000 francs in 1928 and 3,192,000,000 in 1927.

"Borrowers" Auto
Springfield, July 29—After his auto, taken from his yard, had been missing two days, Leo Archambault found the machine returned in good shape to his yard.

SAVES PASSENGERS
Miss Alice Cardinal of No. 16 Quincy street, Medford, saw Samuel Earl of No. 19 Gaston street, driver of an "82" bus, fall unconscious at the wheel, grasped the emergency brake, steered the bus to the curb and saved the machine and passengers from a crash.

WOMAN KILLED IN CAR CRASH

Stonewick, July 29—Mrs. Cecilia Ecklund died today of injuries suffered when an automobile skidded into the car in which she and her husband, Alexander Ecklund of Althaus, were riding.

They were driving to Proctor town when their car collided with that driven by John McDonald of Onset.

"The" McManus Dead at 64
New York, July 29 (A.P.)—Thomas J. McManus, sixty-four, known as "The" McManus, former State Senator and Tammany leader of the 17th District, one of the most picturesque of the old Tammany leaders, died today.

Dinner Waits While Coolidge Fishes

Paul Smith's, N. Y., July 30 (A.P.)—Dinner has to wait in the Summer White House as well as anywhere else in the fishing season.

Mrs. Coolidge had to keep dinner waiting an hour for her husband, and even at that the President expressed regret at leaving a pond on the former William Rockefeller estate while the trout were biting so well. He and his devoted service companions returned after dark with a large catch.

The Chief Executive's fishing excursions have been frequent in the past week or ten days, which have been devoted almost exclusively to governmental affairs and entertainment of guests.

Richard Washburn Child, former Ambassador to Italy, enjoyed a little fishing trip with the President before leaving the camp, when he had been a guest since Tuesday. Mr. Coolidge and his guest put a catch of perch in Osgood Lake.

Ethel Barrymore Recovers

New York, July 29 (U.S.A.)—The condition of Ethel Barrymore, spending two weeks in the hospital recovering from an operation for adhesions, is satisfactory today, by physicians stated.

CHICAGO JAIL WARDEN RESIGNS AFTER PROBE
Chicago, July 30 (A.P.)—Captain George H. Wendling, warden of the Cook County Jail, has sent his resignation to the sheriff. Captain Wendling was held in place for conditions at the jail in a report by Judge J. P. McHenry, who investigated the jail situation and recommended a committee of "disinterested citizens" be appointed to assist in administration.

The investigation resulted from the recent attempt to dynamite the jail, reports of liquor and opium smuggling and fights between inmates.

TWO MORE ARRESTS EXPECTED IN HALL-MILLS SLAYING PROBE

BROTHER OF WIDOW VANISHES, WATCHMAN HELD AS WITNESS

The former State trooper is wanted on a bad check charge involving a Jersey City bank, and on suspicion he has knowledge of the slaying of Mrs. Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills. The search that has been going on for him ever since he disappeared in June, 1925, is now under way with fresh vigor. Three times in the last three years he was traced, but on each occasion he was gone when police closed in on the trail.

HAD PLENTY OF MONEY.

Dickman had heard three men pay him from the constabulary, and nearly $100 in exchange money payable to him. For several months before he dropped out of sight, reports filtered into State office headquarters here that he had big sums of money and took trips to Cuba and other distant points. The State police held the ledger Dickman learned the identity of the slayer or slayers, and was bought off with a large sum.

Charles Houghton, foreman of the April Grand Jury, said today that that body could not possibly be convened in less than two weeks. It may be called at any time up to the time for impeaching the September jury, but just now most of the jurors are away on vacation.

Supreme Court Justice Parker, who is the one to keep the roll, is himself on vacation in Maine, where he expects to stay until September. Prosecutor Houghton said that no request had yet been sent to him to convene the jury.

State police admitted today that more arrests are likely but no information concerning the names of those being sought could be given. It was also known that other witnesses were being sought for questioning at the prosecutor's office, but the names were not made public. William Phillips, factory worker, of Tuamly was not named, it is known.

Question Witness Who Was Near Murder Scene

Somerville, N. J., July 29.—A new witness has been found who is expected to corroborate, at least in part, the testimony of Mrs. Jane Gibson, "pig woman," regarding the slaying on the deserted Phillips farm on the night of the Hall-Mills murder. It was learned today from a most authoritative source.

The man in question was on the murder farm at the time when the double killing is believed to have occurred. He preceded Mrs. Gibson by only a minute or two along the grass grown lane near which the bodies were found under a crab apple tree.

"This man is later was revealed, as a foreigner, the driver of a junk wagon. He already has been questioned by police authorities, who are keeping a close watch on him."

Whether he saw the two men and the woman in the light coat who were described by Mrs. Gibson, the police refuse to say, but the man's story is known to be one of their leads in their efforts to corroborate the farmer woman's story.

"Pig Woman" Reiterates

Her Story About Mrs. Hall

Editors Note:—In an exclusive statement to John A. Morone, noted author and reporter for the New York Evening Journal, Mrs. Jane Gibson, so-called "Pig Woman" of the Hall-Mills murder mystery today reiterated the charges of her amazing account of the tragedy. It is the only interview Mrs. Gibson has given since the reopening of the famous case, obtained by the same writer to whom she granted her first interview at the time of the murders, four years ago, Jane Gibson, the "Pig Woman."

Ties to her story that she saw Mrs. Hall and a man at the scene of the double murder.

By JANE GIBSON.

Copyright, 1926, by the International News Service and the New York Evening Journal.

New Brunswick, N. J., July 29.—

Why should a woman, working as hard as I have through 45 years of life tell a lie about another woman as vile as Mrs. Hall? There would be nothing for me to gain by lying because I did tell the truth about this double murder. I was deeply assigned in the press.

"It has come about that the rich woman is in a cell and the pig woman is still working rather bitterly hard to keep her farm going. I am not ashamed of being called the pig woman. If I had raised cows instead of pigs I might have been called the cow woman. The night of the crime I saw Mrs. Hall leaving over in the grass of the Phillips farm and heard her sobbing. I could not be mistaken about it. No one seeing her could ever forget her face."

SAW WIDOW WEEPING.

Did she kill her husband and his mistress? I don't know but she was there that evening, weeping over the place where her husband's body was found two days later.

The headlights of an automobile flashed at the moment of the double killing. I saw it. I could not identify the man who did the killing. I was taken to the office of the prosecuting attorney to see Willie Stevens and his brother, Henry. Later I saw Henry Carpenter, a first cousin of Mrs. Hall.

The three men have closely knit hair, black, curly. I could not identify any of the men and I am not certain now save only on one point. I saw Mrs. Hall there and I heard her sobbing.

NOW SHE'S IN JAIL.

Four years have passed, rather hard years for me and perhaps much harder for Mrs. Hall. She is in jail and I am still hanging on to my farm. I tried everywhere in New Brunswick to get money for the removal of a mortgage on my place after the tragedy. I was turned down right and left. I was accepted merely as a liar because I could tell the truth when it hurt people of wealth and position.

When this case comes to trial I shall not be afraid of any cross-examination. I will not put in an easy task for me, but God knows I'm no coward.

If Mrs. Hall were as poor as I am or as poor as Elmer Mills, the wife of the janitor of her church, I would tell the truth just the same. I am sorry for her and deeply sorry. When I told the story of what I saw that September night, what I saw by stumbling on it in search of my milk, the one laborer to help me on my job as a farmer woman, I received nothing but abuse. I am poor as a church mouse. My poverty does not worry me. I shall hold to the truth.

Now—A special rate on Gas—for Home Heating

HERE—at last—is the real solution to the ever-recurring problem of keeping your home warm and comfortable in all kinds of weather.

Now there is a rate for Gas which makes this cleaner, healthier and more convenient fuel as advantageous for heating as for cooking.

Now—instead of the difficulties of obtaining hard coal, and the attendant dust and dirt of coal and ashes—

Now—instead of having to keep a certain head of fire regardless of the temperature of the weather—instead of having to pay for your fuel from six to nine months before you use it—and instead of the thousand and one annoyances incident to your present method of heating—

You can have a fuel that is uniform and dependable—that takes up no room, makes no smoke and leaves no dirt—a fuel and a service paid for monthly.

In a word—almost every consideration you can think of is just another reason why you should use Gas for building and house heating

Three things, however, should be thoroughly understood:

First—Only a heating plant designed for Gas may be used for house heating—the installation of a gas burner in an existing furnace is not practical at the present time.

Second—Each installation must be handled as a separate case—no standard specification will fit all houses.

Third—Gas fuel may cost more than hard coal, but the advantages much more than offset additional cost.

In fact—the best way to get a real idea of the advantages of Gas fuel and the new special rate for building and house heating—to get the correct idea of what this will involve—and how you will benefit from it—is to talk with our engineers, give them an appointment for a survey of your house-heating requirements, let them determine what equipment may be necessary, and estimate what it will cost to install and use Gas to heat your house.

An interview with one of our experts will cost you nothing.

729.00 and reported that amount to her.

Before Mrs. Papathanos went back to the 4-10, Miss Lydia Bismarck of Chatham, a divorcee, was examined by Mr. Papathanos. Will J. H. Garand, about her husband, the papers of the late Attorney Herbert L. Baker.

Attorney Baker, represented the Boston man, "Mr. Baker," in the settlement with Coakley. Miss Bismarck was questioned by Attorney Garand.

Q—You say that Mr. Baker put the document in an envelope and then placed it in his desk? A—Yes.

Q—What drawer? A—The top right-hand drawer.

Q—Was that where he kept other confidential papers? A—Yes.

Q—Did he also keep papers in there on matters he handled for clients? A—Some of them.

BHE HAD NO KEY

Q—Did you have a key? A—No.

Q—Previous to March 1915, Mr. Baker was in ill health, wasn't he? A—Yes, just before his ill health began.

Q—Didn't ask that. A—No, I didn't.

Q—You think as his revolution it was a thing that when he first showed signs of weakness, didn't I say that I am not exactly sure of that.

Q—You knew he had high blood pressure? A—Yes.

Q—You knew it was about the time of this transaction? A—I thought it was later.

Q—Did you say it was not at that time? A—No, I don't know.

Q—When did he die? A—November 1915.

Q—He collapsed in his office? A—Yes.

Q—Were you there at the time? A—No.

Q—When did you next see him? A—At the Haymarket Hotel, Boston.

Q—Was he dead? A—I think he was dying.

TYPED DOCUMENT

Q—When you returned to the office was the document on the desk or open? A—I couldn't say.

Q—You handled his confidential matters didn't you? A—Yes.

Q—He had as much confidence in you as in the other clerks in the office, didn't he? A—Yes.

Q—So you typed Exhibit One in his name? A—Yes.

Q—Can you say whether or not the folder contained a paper in the upper right drawer of the desk after his death? A—I couldn't say.

Q—No, I don't know as much.

CATHOLIC SERVICES IN MEXICO HELD BY PRIESTS LAST TIME

NATIVES GUARD GUADELUPE SHRINE

Attempt to Prevent Government From Taking Possession, Is Reported

Mexico City, July 29 (N.S.A.)—That there may be ugly incidents in the religious situation was indicated today by reports that Mexican Indians, fully armed, have arrived at Guadalupe to guard the shrine there and to prevent the government from taking it over. In other regions it is reported that some of the more fanatical churches are being protected by Indians and persons, who are prepared to defend the churches by force.

There have already been reports of clashes in various parts of the country between individuals or small groups, but as yet there have been no organized demonstrations.

Spanish Minister to Mexico Is Recalled

Paris, July 29 (N.S.A.)—The Spanish minister to Mexico has been recalled owing to the religious situation which he defended in the interests of Spanish Catholics in that country. Advice from Madrid said today.

Newspapers Warned by Atty.-Gen. Ortega

Mexico City, July 29 (A.P.)—Attorney-General Ortega has issued a private warning to the directors of the foremost newspapers of the capital to be cautious in their treatment of news regarding the religious situation.

He said that the situation had been magnified and that the newspapers and newspaper men were causing a grave and troublesome situation for which they might be held responsible unless they moderated their ways.

No official order in this respect has been issued. No specific reference was made to foreign correspondents by the attorney-general.

Ask Coolidge to Remove Embargo of Arms to Mexico

Washington, July 29 (A.P.)—Removal of the embargo which forbids shipment of arms into Mexico is urged by the National League for Religious Liberty. The league has asked that whether such a step shall be taken. There are indications that some time may elapse before a decision is made. Meanwhile the State Department refuses to disclose its views on the subject, meeting all inquiries with the terse statement that the embargo is still in effect.

Extreme caution has resulted from the fact that removal of the restrictions has come up for decision at a time when the situation in Mexico is, perhaps, as tense as when the embargo was proclaimed in 1925 and now is complicated by religious issues.

SAYS ROAD ABLE TO RAISE PAY

The financial prosperity of the Eastern Massachusetts Turnpike Road was advanced by James H. Vahby, counsel for the corporation, that line and their representative on the state board of taxation, as a reason for the increase of pay demanded by them, which is now under consideration by the arbitration committee at the state house.

Vahby at the hearing today introduced evidence which showed that the road had paid out more than half a million dollars and had bought new equipment worth of its bonds before maturity.

Arthur G. Wadleigh, trustee for the road and its senior counsel, objected to the introduction of this report by Vahby and said that the proposed reduction in the company's funded debt merely meant that the road was meeting its debt as it came due.

"We are not yet in the hands of a receiver," said Mr. Wadleigh, "and furthermore we don't intend to be in the future."

Forgiveness Keynote of Catholics' Plea

"Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

This echo of the prayer made on the Cross nearly 1900 years ago is the underlying spirit of next Sunday's day of world-wide prayers for Mexico, the Pilot asserts in an editorial today.

The prayers, in which Boston Catholics will join at the call of Cardinal O'Connell, are not to be considered a cry for vengeance but a plea for pardon for those responsible for the "crimes and inhuman persecutions of Catholics in Mexico," as well as a petition to God to stay the hand of terror there, the editorial declares.

The Pilot editorial follows: Sunday, August 1, the Feast of St. Peter in Chains, is the day designated by the Holy Father for world wide prayers for Mexico. In accordance with the Holy Father's wishes, His Eminence, the Cardinal, has directed the Catholics of Boston to observe this day of prayer by uniting their fervent supplications with those of the Holy Father and their fellow Catholics throughout the world for the relief of persecuted Mexico.

SELDOM EQUALLED. Under a hypocritical form of pretended legality, the Mexican government is carrying out a persecution of Catholics that for intensity and cruelty has seldom been equalled in history.

In their distress the faithful Catholics of Mexico have sought the Holy Father to come to their aid. Their pathetic appeal touched the maternal heart of the apostolic Father of Christianity. The Holy Father, through his spiritual successors in Mexico, has directed the Catholics of Boston to observe this day of prayer by uniting their fervent supplications with those of the Holy Father and their fellow Catholics throughout the world for the relief of persecuted Mexico.

SEANCES WITH PRIESTS END IN MEXICO

Catholics Disarmed and Federal Troops Held at Barracks in Readiness

Churches in protest against the government's religious measures. President Calles in a speech last night declared that the hour was approaching for a final fight to determine the triumph of revolution or reaction. The struggle would be between light and darkness, he said, and the government would win.

All Catholics to the contrary are to be disarmed in accordance with an order issued by Attorney-General Ortega. Señor Ortega said this move was a consequence to reports that Catholic groups were meeting secretly at night and that the authorities were fearful the gatherings were for the purpose of offering opposition to the religious laws.

Federal troops are being held in barracks in case of outbreaks.

CHURCHES CROWDED

After more than a fortnight of attendance upon masses and other religious services, the faithful Catholics of Mexico City were crowded into churches, cathedrals and shrines throughout the republic. It was feared that when the services ended at 10 o'clock tonight there would be thousands who had been unable to enter the churches.

Special dispatches from Guadalupe, Jara and other shrines, where the faithful Catholics were gathered in great numbers, reported that the authorities were fearful the gatherings were for the purpose of offering opposition to the religious laws.

Federal troops are being held in barracks in case of outbreaks.

ECONOMIC PROTEST

Although the churches will be without ministers, it is expected they will continue to be filled with worshippers, who will read the prayer book as though a priest was present. The church authorities have indicated that they will continue to attend their churches, the doors of which will be open to the faithful.

A lightning set off last night in the great cathedral here while it was filled with worshippers nearly resulted in a great panic. When the flash set off the people inside the edifice made frantic attempts to reach the exits, but the authorities were quick to restore order.

On Saturday simultaneously with the religious regulations coming into effect, the National League for Religious Liberty will start its campaign of protest.

These successive acts of directors of the league have been directed against the government, which is charged with the duty of protecting the rights of the people.

The confederation, together with groups of labor and Socialist members of Congress, as well as other political groups and government employees, have planned big parades for Sunday in Mexico City and other cities as a demonstration of their support of the government's policy.

Meanwhile the Catholics, under instructions from the church authorities, will not be permitted to stage processions or demonstrations. They will be expected to assemble in the churches and observe the services.

The police have begun a careful search of all Catholic churches, fearing their members may be taken away. Yesterday they arrested four youths who were taking from a church a typewriter and other personal property of a priest.

The youths told the police they were taking the property to the priest's new residence on his orders.

PLAN MEDIATION. Some foreign diplomats, including the French and Spanish, are giving serious consideration to a movement to have the diplomatic corps offer its service as friendly mediators in the religious struggle.

James R. Sheffield, the American ambassador, who is the dean of the corps, has not taken any official action in this respect, nor has the plan been presented to him officially.

TWO MEXICANS KILLED IN POLITICAL FEUD

Mexico City, July 29 (A.P.)—Senator Manuel Hernández Galván and his brother-in-law, José Hernández Galván, were shot and killed last night during a political fight in the city.

Galván and Álvarez, political enemies, met in the saloon, where they were drinking and talking. Galván was shot and killed by a bullet from a revolver.

Galván was shot and killed by a bullet from a revolver. The police are investigating the case.

COMMENT ON SOCIETY

THE PAINTING PRATER-
NITY's rising young star,
John Lavalle, is sailing home after a foreign sojourn that has brought new fame to this laurel-gathering Bostonian. A warm welcome awaits him and his family (Mrs. Lavalle was Ellen Tufts) on arrival at Nahant, at the Summer home of his mother, Mrs. Lavalle.

DURING HIS STAY abroad conspicuous honors have been his.
A long residence in London during the execution of various commissions was first on the program.
Then came Paris, the motor for artists the whole world round, and an out stamping ground of Mr. La-vaille's.

LATER A TOUR OF STUDY in Rome, at the Academy, was in order. A villa at Cannes, a cottage on the Breton coast and pilgrimages to this and that art centre are interesting details of the artist's

Life abroad, where every locale is fruit for the brush.

A HIGHLIGHT in his career was a "one-man" show put on in Paris at the Akerham Women's Club by special request of members, this in itself a rare distinction.
Shows on this side figure also in the Lavalle progress, and Boston has been thus specially favored.

HIS TALENTS run to water color, wherein he shows special felicity. Portraits are, however, his metier, and several works from his brush are already hung in Boston homes. Future plans of the Lavalle will be revealed after landing, but they probably include numerous Fall exhibitions.

SPEAKING OF NAHANT, summertime existence in that exclusive little colony—largely of inter-family line—in this season especially charming and informal.
Entertainment taking on the basis of impromptu luncheon-tea-dinnerand-dance.

LOUGHRAN AND RISCO READY FOR THE GONG

Both Battlers Are Confident of Victory

By JACK CONWAY

Jack Conway

JOHNNY RISCO, terrific punch, and JACK LOUGHRAN, the champion, are ready for the gong. The fight is scheduled for Saturday night at the Garden.

Tonight's Card

Johnny Risco, Cleveland, vs. Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia, ten rounds.
Johnny Indreanov, East Boston, vs. Doc Gomez, Trenton, N. J., eight rounds.
Charley Donovan, South Boston, vs. Tod Griffin, Chelsea, eight rounds.
Ted Johnson, Fort Banks, vs. Jas. Wright, Salem, eight rounds.

A delay which enabled Paul to come out of the ether.

"In the second frame, I cracked another left hook in the chin and Loughran took another nine count. He was once more dead when he got up. This time the string holding on his right biceps broke and had to be adjusted. This gave him a minute's rest."

"I know what he is in Boston. I shot a fair deal and that if I put on a heavy right, Loughran would be in a bad way."

WE later met Loughran and he said he was in a bad way. He said he was in a bad way. He said he was in a bad way. He said he was in a bad way.

Scientific Bootlegging--

It Pays Well

THESE ARE SCOTCH WHISKY - BOOTLEGGING TORPEDOS

Bootleggers make hundreds of millions a year. This picture shows how PART of the profit is made, in a scientific way.

These torpedoes are not the old-fashioned kind carrying dynamite to destroy ships, but whiskey torpedoes, filled with Scotch whiskey, a great deal in each torpedo. Each torpedo has an air chamber which keeps the torpedo from sinking. When the rum boat, bringing its load of whiskey torpedoes, gets near Long Island, these torpedoes are dropped overboard at night and run-running small boats tow the alcohol poison ashore. If danger comes, the situation is simple. The bootlegger drops the torpedo that he is towing and declares himself innocent. There is no proof against him. Later he recovers the prize if he can.

Much ingenuity is used to sell for $60 twelve bottles of Scotch whiskey that can be bought for $12 or less. It has been suggested that one or more submarines are in use, going out to sea to meet rum ships and bringing in the precious cargo below the water.

How to deal with this illegal traffic is one of Uncle Sam's big problems.

Within the Law

There Is No Real Corrupt Practices Act

Looking forward to the time when progressives shall rule Britain, Bernard Shaw says:

"We shall need a civil service with the devotion of an army and the loyalty of a religious order."

Such an official spirit would be highly desirable in this country, too; but in view of the Pennsylvania and Illinois primary disclosures it seems still remote.

Mr. Grundy invested hundreds of thousands of dollars in vote-buying in Pennsylvania, because the manufacturers he represented wanted to control the party organization and thus escape their share of taxation.

He was candid about it, admitting freely the facts and the motive. Yet, so far as can be judged, few Americans are either surprised or morally shocked.

Now it seems that Samuel Insull, Chicago's public utility king, did the same sort of political investing in Illinois.

He gave $125,000 to the campaign fund of the successful Republican candidate for Senator and $15,000 to the campaign fund of the successful Democratic candidate for Senator.

The Republican candidate for Senator at the time was chairman of the State commission which regulates Mr. Insull's electric, gas and traction companies. The Democratic candidate represented only a city organization.

Mr. Grundy's money and Mr. Insull's money were spent most lavishly for the Republican candidate because the Republican party is dominant in Pennsylvania and Illinois. But Mr. Insull made a smaller investment in the Democratic candidate because one can never tell what may happen.

We are not going to moralize about this. The purpose, the policy, the effect of such a system is too obvious.

No one can honestly blame Mr. Insull for doing what self-interest so plainly impels him to do, so long as it is perfectly legal. No virtuous member of the Senate or House can throw stones at him because Congress has never been willing to enact a real corrupt practices act.

Mr. Charles E. Hughes has been called one of the high moral leaders of the Republican party, and it was Mr. Hughes who established the fact, legally, in the Newberry case in the Supreme Court of the United States, that no matter how much money is spent in a primary, it is not spent "for an election," as a primary does not elect a Senator and therefore no amount of money spent for a "friendly candidate" in a primary is corrupt money.

"Plumb to--"

Let's Hope Not

The twenty-one-year-old son of the Rev. Dr. John Bosch Straton, earnest fundamentalist, has been admitted to preach in the Baptist Church, after answering questions of thirteen delegates.

Only one question puzzled him—a colored Baptist preacher wanted to know what he thought about "sanctification." Young Mr. Straton didn't know. The colored brother's definition might be interesting.

According to this young clergyman, the world is getting worse, in fact, he says, "it is getting plumb to hell," and it's going to be much worse than it is now. Let us hope it won't be as bad as all that. As a pitch, a miracle might save us.

TIME TO CLEAN UP!

WHEN LAW BECOMES NEAR-SIGHTED

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A HEART warming example of the beautiful and humane common sense of our legal system took place recently in Los Angeles.

A woman whose husband had abused, beaten and thrown her out of the house, applied for a divorce.

Witnesses testified to extreme cruelty. There seemed to be every reason for granting the decree. The judge was about to pass favorably upon the case.

Then Hizonzor was struck by a bright idea.

"I've stood it for twenty years."

Twenty years! Ah! That altered the case.

Hizonzor plunged deep into the sea of legal red tape and arose triumphantly bearing a strand with which he proceeded to gag and bind justice thusly:

"In that case you are not entitled to a divorce. In the case of extreme cruelty the law contemplates suit within four years. The theory of the law is that if a wife submits to a course of conduct for more than four years it cannot be construed as extreme cruelty.

"Case closed. Decree not granted."

"In other words, if a wife isn't killed off or driven to despair in four years the treatment isn't cruel—at least it is not extremely cruel.

If she lasts for twenty years the benign kindness of the law intimates that she can go on lasting indefinitely.

Cruelty that lasts too long is not cruelty at all!

If such reasoning is logic and such myopic devotion justice, this world is madder than the proverbial March hare.

"Justice is denied to no one," is the motto carved with pious correctness on the wall of the Hall of Justice.

"So your old man" would make another fine motto—just as appropriate and with as much influence.

Law which hands out decrees like the above is no near-sighted it couldn't be far enough to read either motto anyway.

WHO DICTATES TO YOU YOUR COURSE IN LIFE?

Have you allowed what others might think to influence you in giving up some contest which would be of benefit to you? Because you wish to maintain your position in society you are clinging to a yearly salary which means nothing but the money it brings.

You cannot hope to advance; your mind is not called into play sufficiently to mean real mental growth. The first step means stagnation.

Yet you are too weak-willed to take the first step toward future competence, because it entails less spending money in the present, less time at your golf or dinner clubs.

If your soulless friends would drop you because you choose to stay out of what you term the "social arena," they are not worth keeping.

If you should reach a financial crisis as a result of too much thought of the present instead of planning for the future, where would your friends be?

Don't let your social friends dictate your life course.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

JONES has gone into bankruptcy. Too bad. His father left him a wonderful business and Jones worked his head off trying to make a success of it. But he didn't know how to organize or systematize. He employed three times the office force he needed. He ran up huge bills for printing and unnecessary paraphernalia. He tried out all sorts of elaborate schemes that tripped the operating expenses. In the end the overpaid staff ate up all the profits. He tried to retrench, but it was too late. Now he'll have to begin all over again and the going will be hard.

Overhead that has spoiled many a going business. Countless fuses, needless waste, too much junk and front, no proper system of control—then bankruptcy.

Overhead that has spoiled many a life, too.

Did you ever stop to consider that a life has operating expenses just as a business has? It has.

Each life has so much to do—a certain output to give the world. And that output costs each life a certain amount of energy, time and emotion. That energy, time and emotion are the "overhead" in the business of life. If the output costs more than the energy, time and emotion, there will be profit in that life, and the business will go on successfully. But if it costs more time and energy and emotion than it makes it a success. No one can afford it—the overhead is too great—the life will go into bankruptcy just as Jones has done.

Two-Home Makers

Consider two women—Constance and Rachel.

Constance and Rachel are mothers. Their business is homemaking.

They are both young. They have women in their late twenties.

Each woman has two children of about the same age. Their husbands have about the same salary.

There are two life businesses as alike as two different shops or two beauty parlors. But note how different they are operated.

Rachel had started on a much earlier man and she married him in a whirl of romantic ecstasy. She did not have an extraordinary talent for housework, but she was content. She had preplanned great things for her future, but she did more than that. To her natural inclination she added a few common sense.

She thought of her husband as a man to be trusted. It was also to be expected that she would grumble a little until she became accustomed to what you term the "social arena," they are not worth keeping.

If you should reach a financial crisis as a result of too much thought of the present instead of planning for the future, where would your friends be?

Don't let your social friends dictate your life course.

Have you allowed what others might think to influence you in giving up some contest which would be of benefit to you? Because you wish to maintain your position in society you are clinging to a yearly salary which means nothing but the money it brings.

EDUCATIONAL VALUE OF MAPS GREAT

By Garrett P. Servis

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

THERE is nothing more beautiful than a map—if it is made right, and is based on correct surveying, and nothing is more full of useful information.

On the other hand, there is nothing more ugly, or provoking, or irritating, or misleading, than a map that is made wrong, or is based upon seriously prepared data. The bad maps vastly outnumber the good ones. I have a number of times called attention to the excellence of the maps of our country, prepared and distributed at a nominal price, by the U. S. Geological Survey in Washington. These are called, collectively, "The Geographic Map of the United States."

Rectangular areas a few miles on a side constitute a sheet. Each sheet is shown by "contour lines," a very effective method. The common contour interval, 100 feet, the difference of elevation included between any two adjacent, or parallel contour lines, is twenty feet.

Picture of Earth

Every fifth line, indicating a 100-foot interval, is drawn heavier. The lines follow the horizontal outlines of hills, stream banks, knolls, depressions, valleys, ridges, precipices, cliffs, etc., and being crowded close together on steep slopes, and spaced out in proportion as the slopes ease off, they have, for anyone possessing a little power of imagination, almost the appearance of a picture of the earth's surface seen from above.

These sheets are not too large to be carried freely on an automobile trip, and the amount of information that they give about the face of the country through which you are driving is astonishing and delightful.

Some of the later issues of these charts the world's area are illustrated by a great deal, so that the tourist gets some idea of the country passed through have educational value.

Ad M. Lester Jones, director of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, says of them: "They are a great deal more than a mere map. They are a picture of the country passed through have educational value."

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

Words will never be wanting if you deal with a well-considered subject.

By hearing with an ancient injury you invite a new one.

Victor and vanquished never unite in a hearty agreement.

He who knows the way in the sea should make the river his companion.

He whom God alters stays safely. Heaven favors good intentions.

He who ceases to pray ceases to be a man.

It is always the adventures who accomplish great things and not the dreamers of great schemes.
